-->One Source Building Technologies (OSBT)....	-->Very Bad Company! Been sued in Texas for not properly paying their employees a fair wage. They treat their sub-contract hired techs like trash and harass them with confirmation phone calls 2 hours before the start of any assigned work order and then, claim its their policy to do so. They pay their hired techs a horrible wage and just flat out don't respect the hard work they do. Long time employees are leaving them too. This company tells lies about their techs and then cheats their customers out of money they paid for proper professional services. And also the new guy you hired to take over your Partner Relations Position, is a total d!ck and a condescending a$$hole! In fact, he's the right kind of person a company would desire to hire if they wanted to terminate a bunch of good hardworking people and gradually wreck their business so, the higher-up execs can save a few million dollars and get rich when they sell the company off. All-in-all, OSBT your evil frauds! So just close your doors and go out of business!

CPT Network Solutions.....	-->A once nice tech support company that turned into pure trash after the “Covid-19” pandemic hit in November 2019. Since then, they outsourced their entire answering call center to the Philippines. Where they contract hired a call center company there to take all the CPT in bound calls and then claim they are direct employees of CPT Networks when this is not true at all. So sadly, CPT has become a shady and fraudulent company. Yet, they handle various big retail stores from Ulta, Fastenal, Kay Jewelers and etc. And with their sub-contracted Field Techs, they are highly pressuring them to get stuff done and often times they will act rude and pushy towards them too. To even trying to get these Techs to do out of scope work with no additional pay – ie making them do paperwork for long hours and then site revisits under the threat of not getting paid for their actual on site completed work! Its highway robbery! Then to top it off, CPT Project Managers and their Support Staff will tell lies to cover up their mistakes and place the blame on their contracted Field Techs. To include, constantly asking these techs to keep verifying completed work. Its absolutely insane and mentally toxic to put up with! CPT should be legally sued and put of business. And as for me, I will never work for these nasty people again. BEST TO STAY AWAY FROM THESE CROOKED JERKS! But gee CPT, go ahead and give one your fake canned responses that doesn’t even remotely resolve the that fact your company doesn’t even care about the customers whom hired you in first place! So for you, I gather its just the financial bottom line and the golden parachutes your cheap crooked execs will get when they turn around and sell the company right under your noses and put you all in the unemployment line! I mean really... whom are you actually serving!?!?!?
